Cast

Rika Bjøstafel

Hailing From: Earth
Occupation: Assistant Office Lady
Enjoys: socializing, action movies, kamhooping, dirty jokes

Rika is a pretty typical Earthling: fun-loving, relatively care-free, and not exactly certain what to do with the rest of her life. Her friends and colleagues frequently remark on her nearly unflappable good mood and her surprising ability to get along with just about anyone. Her closest relationship exists with Mai Joon, her best friend since high school and most loyal confidant.

Rika makes friends easily and generally wears her heart on her sleeve. Despite a reputation as a serial flirt, she maintains her singledom as a badge of honor. Growing up in a single-parent household, she's adopted her mother's tendency to be fiercely loyal to her friends, and has a strong sense of personal boundaries. Rika frequently falls into a routine and often needs something to help her snap out of it. She generally shies away from food that isn't served in sandwich or burrito form.

When Rika accidentally married Pepito D'bo — one of the most dangerous criminals in the galaxy — it was a big deal. Not only because of the fact that the only morality to the fact that Earthlings are not particularly well-versed in the intricacies of K'baban mating rituals. An almost endless chain of bizarre events has been occurring ever since.

Mai Joon

Hailing From: Earth
Occupation: Artist, Activist
Enjoys: reading, multicultural cuisine, martial arts, bathing

Mai is a shy girl, usually keeping to herself and rarely venturing beyond the confines of her home. Bookish by nature, she's become a fount of knowledge on a wide range of existence. Mai's buttons are easily pushed, resulting in occasional fits of rage and violence. Despite her reputation as a loner, Mai actively dislikes being the center of attention, often going out of her way to avoid standing out in a crowd. Mai is noticeably more relaxed in the company of her closest friend, Rika Bjøstafel.

She was brought up wanting for little, her parents lavishing her with nearly everything she could ever possibly want, save for the one thing she truly craved. Mai was lonely and languishing in solitude, but meeting Rika in high school changed all that, giving her a new outlook on life (most importantly, that it wasn't all bad). Mai is a fan of Earth culture, particularly its martial arts and others' alien tastes. Though she still doesn't completely understand eccentricity, she's become more willing to emulate them.

Mai is currently married by association to Pepito D'bo, a notorious space pirate, after a failed attempt to save Rika from the shackles of holy K'baban matrimony. Mai's relationship with Pepito is a strictly platonic one, though Pepito hasn't taken kindly to her rejection and requires her to pretend to be Rika's domestic partner at all times, but she doesn't mind.

Mai has recently discovered the joy of massage and has become a curiously frequent customer.

Pepito D'bo

Hailing From: K'bab
Occupation: Lawbreaker, Kung Fu Masseuse
Enjoys: eating, wrestling, girls, being with Zukie

What Pepito lacks in brainpower, she makes up for in tenacity and appetite. She values the opinion of her best friend and older sister, Zukie, above all else. Pepito's loyalty to Zukie is fierce, and she'll do anything (and everything possible (almost always)), regardless of the situation being appropriate (usually never). Her inexperience in most social graces stems from a complete lack of inhibition and a child-like fascination with just about everything.

Pepito and Zukie were abandoned at birth and raised in one of K'bab's many orphanages. Pepito was a troublesome child, getting into frequent fights, both fighting, and staying alive — they struck out on their own as little more than children, living on the streets and just barely making ends meet. By the time they reached their teens, they had graduated to petty crime, frequently spending their evenings in jail or on the lam. It wasn't until they escaped the planet that their criminal careers really took off.

Pepito is currently married to Rika, Mai, and the prince of the Tri-Galactic Federation through unusual circumstances. She is also a practitioner of a rare martial art, Kung Fu Masseuse, which is a lot more dangerous than it happens to be a very dangerous criminal — currently Number Four of the Galaxy's Ten Most Wanted. Her favorite Earth foods are dairy products, which are largely unknown on her homeworld. She is easily moved to tears.

Zukie D'bo

Hailing From: K'bab
Occupation: Criminal, Massage Artist
Enjoys: cooking, showering, girls, being with Pepito

Zukie's interests revolve almost entirely around her younger sister; she puts Pepito's needs before her own in all things, and has a "protective instinct to the sick" certainly goes beyond the normal bounds of a sibling relationship, but the extent of this interest remains mostly speculation. Zukie is obsessed with cleanliness, showering multiple times per day or more. She delights in harassing women she finds attractive.

After a life of petty crime on their native K'bab, Zukie and Pepito took to space piracy in the surrounding star systems. Several successful heists on makeri Tri-Galactic vessels quickly brought them to the attention of the Intergalactic Police Force, and they soon found themselves on the infamous Most Wanted #3, a maximum security penal colony orbited by an electromagnetic minefield. It remains unclear how they escaped the first, second, or third time.

Zukie has a marked distrust of the opposite sex, which she is not afraid to verbalize. She's adept at the culinary arts, and can make a delicious meal out of just about anything. Zukie's martial art of choice is Kung Fu Masseuse, a style of massause are formidable, as almost anyone on the receiving end of her techniques will likely testify. Zukie should be considered armed and dangerous, especially if she's in possession of a bottle of massage oil. Zukie was also married to Ruby Maxim, a cyborg bounty hunter, after a botched attempt on her life. Zukie is in possession of an ancient Garritan artifact known as the Ring of Matrimony, which prevents those going with her sister by its rightful owners ever since it was stolen.

Prince Julian Petri Volnoch III

Hailing From: Zebley
Occupation: Prince of the Tri-Galactic Federation, Handsome Bounty Hunter
Enjoys: cooking, fancy clothes, hair gel, acting

Young Prince Julian is the proud descendant of a royal line of intergalactic bounty hunters. Trained in the art of tracking from an early age, Julian has amassed an impressive list of captured bounties, and seems poised to surpass his father's record of accomplishments. Julian's rugged, yet handsome appearance, he is in peak physical condition; regular athletic conditioning has made him extremely nimble and resilient. He has a slightly unhealthy obsession with his hair and speaking in the third person.

During his training aboard a Tri-Galactic warship, Julian befriended Molaki Bounty Hunter Ruby Maxim, and developed a crush on her. Ruby's interest in a relationship have been divulged, a tryst has been widely rumored and speculated upon in a number of intergalactic tabloids. After a falling out, the two have since reconciled, the same high-ranking bounties, causing several highly publicized dust-ups.

Julian's svelte physique, radiant complexion, good sense of personal hygiene, and naturally fabulous hair give him the ability to pass as a woman when dressed and made up appropriately, though the usefulness of this trait remains to be seen. Julian's engagement to Pepito D'bo, one of the most dangerous space pirates in the galaxy. Despite a penchant for bravado, his legendary reputation as a bounty hunter is largely undeserved. His encounter with Pepito was the best time for successfully putting the moves on a complete stranger is twenty-seven Earth seconds.

Ruby Maxim

Hailing From: Molaki
Occupation: Ring-size Bounty Hunter
Enjoys: drinking, exercise, vigilante justice, polishing

Ruby is much, much smaller than the average Earthling, in several respects. In Earth measurements, she's about seven feet tall and weighs slightly over a hundred pounds. Her proportions are also considerably smaller than a human's. The more intimate measurements, all of which are similarly enormous. After an introspective session brought on by the time-honored Molaki tradition of binge drinking, Ruby underwent a series of cybernetic enhancements that granted her extreme body augmentation. Her mechanical upgrades have given her a distinct edge over most competitors, as well as endowing her with the ability to shoot lasers from her eyes. Despite the fact that Molaki and Garritans are close in range for offspring, bionics are a fairly common elective procedure amongst inhabitants of Ruby's homeworld, of whom nearly half are cyborgs.

Tri-Galactic Federation's free market ethos has encouraged a number of experimental "containment technology," a type of teleportation-based compression system that can store and catalogue any kind of matter in a handheld device. After a successful prototyping phase using organic objects and livestock, more complex experimental devices have been deployed in the field for bounty pacification.

Ruby was formerly employed by the Garritan military to aid them in a top secret mission, but was presumed dead and replaced by the mercenary Commander Dhin. Ruby is extremely protective of her personal space, and anything, she'd like to have a real friend with whom she could relate, but tends to scare them away before she has a chance to really open up to them. She has an uncanny ability to destroy almost everything she touches.

Commander Grenna Dhin

Hailing From: Garritas
Occupation: Mysterious Head Honcho
Enjoys: fine wine, obedience, trap doors, mood lighting

Commander Dhin has traveled innumerable distances to find a certain female whose name remains unknown. In fact, the Commander's entire motivation for existence can be traced back to this search, but he keeps a heavily guarded head on it. He was formerly the appointed Supreme Chancellor of Garritas, a planet in the Tri-Galactic Federation, but abdicated the throne to pursue his quest. A private guard, Ms Fatte in his cause is unshakeable, and his loyal crew would gladly follow him to the end of the universe without question.

Commander Dhin has a vested interest in the advancement of experimental "containment technology," a type of teleportation-based compression system that can store and catalogue any kind of matter in a handheld device. Consisting with an undisclosed altercation caused a falling out. Ruby received an honorable discharge from the fleet after completing her requisite three years, and returned to her homeworld of Molak. It remains to be seen whether or not uncoil whether her relationship with Prince Julian remained strictly professional.

Ruby was formerly employed by the Garritan military to aid them in a top secret mission, but was presumed dead and replaced by the mercenary Commander Dhin. Ruby is extremely protective of her personal space, and anything, she'd like to have a real friend with whom she could relate, but tends to scare them away before she has a chance to really open up to them. She has an uncanny ability to destroy almost everything she touches.

Beatrix "Queen" Quenelli

Hailing From: Gattoie
Occupation: High-ranking Bounty, BDSM Enthusiast
Enjoys: leather, cage, embellishment, yoga

Known simply as "Queen," Beatrix is the leader of a group of mercenaries employed by a mysterious space-faring entrepreneur. Though petite in stature, she's a deceptively powerful brawler with a ruthless, unpredictable streak a mile wide. Her body is covered in numerous scars, evidence of her various piercings and body modifications, to which she is constantly adding, are a source of great pride.

Queen is just shy of one hundred years old, but maintains a youthful appearance thanks to her Gattoei genetics. Like many Gattoei her age, she has undergone a number of cosmetic procedures to maintain her youth, but has proved transformative. Studying the movements and mannerisms of the occupying force, Queen became fascinated with their predictability. Before long, she'd begun to incorporate these movements into her own style, and the agents of various rank understood. During an attempt on a fifteenth victim, she was identified by several eye witnesses, but managed to flee the planet and disappear for a time. She has since risen to the top of the notorious mercenary work with those operating outside the bounds of intergalactic law. She has since perfected the art of killing.

A cunning strategist with only her personal interests in mind, Queen should never be trusted under any circumstances — perhaps not even by her own mother. Queen is considered the most dangerous person in the entire galaxy, a statistic she resents with a passion.

Anya "Butcher" Bellanova

Hailing From: Bo-Fei
Occupation: Telepathic Nerd-Do-Well
Enjoys: skimpy outfits, sunbathing, expensive treats, wanton violence

Anya is a trusted member of Queen's inner circle. Though female language barrier can make her seem a little simple, she's a sharp wit and skilled manipulator. Anya's telepathic abilities are limited to the ability to read the surface level thought patterns. It is nearly impossible to keep a secret from her without intense mental training. While not particularly skilled in combat, her persuasive methods of interrogation and torture have made her notorious throughout the universe.

Anya led a relatively unassuming life on her native Bo-Fei as a commercial sex worker until crossing paths with Beatrix Quenelli, a fugitive from Gattoie. Sick's sightings of Gattoei expatriates are extremely rare, Anya became intrigued with Beatrix, and the two developed a strong bond. Anya's telepathic abilities were revealed, Anya saved herself by appealing to Queen's vanity and begging to be taken under her wing. In exchange for a safe hideout, Queen educated her in the ways of the galaxy, and Anya has since served as a role model, and assistant to one day be half as good at killing people.

A passionate hedonist, Anya prioritizes the pursuit of pleasure above most things, including her personal safety. She is attracted to anyone she perceives as powerful, regardless of their physical sex. Anya is constantly expanding her vocabulary, and enjoys using obscure and fantastic creatures, some of which happen to be former celebrities.

Lone Ghunnman

Hailing From: Tawny Port
Occupation: Gun Slinger, Space Cowboy
Enjoys: trick shooting, tech support, hand-rolled cigarettes, gabbing

Lone is the long-range specialist in Queen's elite squad of mercenaries. His ability to shoot accurately from extreme distances is legendary, and capable of handling a wide range of ammunition at the press of a button. A crack shot in any situation, Lone is a master of precision shooting with seemingly unreal accuracy. Lone's weapon of choice is a modified sniper rifle, though he will leave the holster behind they take that to be up to the big curve in the stars.

Lone joined Queen's entourage while locked in the brig of Tawny Port — an enormous space station located between the Milky Way and Andromeda galaxies. With a reputation as a carouser, Lone frequently spent his nights in the brig after a night of drinking and fighting. Queen saw this as a unique opportunity to utilize his unusual talent for more than barroom parlor tricks. Queen paid his bail and enlisted his support. He feels a strong sense of responsibility to Queen, and will follow her to the ends of the galaxy. Occasionally has qualms about her methods. Lone has a habit of unintentionally getting on Queen's bad side, but he really does mean well.

Raised in a family of career mechanics, he's developed a knack for repairing all manner of things, as well as the ability to talk the ears off even the most disinterested listener. Lone is a chain smoker of hand-rolled cigarettes with little effort. While he considers himself a ladies' man, he remains blissfully unaware of most amorous overtures made in his direction. Lone is a heavy drinker, and has a particular fondness for tobaccos, though recent changes to Tri-Galactic law have limited its availability.

HK-7 Lanogan

Hailing From: Unknown
Occupation: Bounty Hunter
Enjoys: precision, technical drawing, close combat, meditating

A man of relatively few words, Lanogan is an incredibly powerful combat android raised in Queen's team. Little is known about his origins, as he never volunteers information about his past; however, his demise bears the hallmarks of Tri-Galactic Federation. He is a fully functional android, possessing a form of artificial intelligence and his synthetic muscles are capable of bearing unbelievable amounts of tension without him breaking a sweat — that is, if he chooses to do so. Lanogan is a fully functional android, possessing a personality on occasion, he prefers to keep this information private. A melee combat specialist, Lanogan excels at fighting bare-handed, though his left eye has also been outfitted with a high-powered laser capable of cutting through thick steel plating.

Lanogan was recruited by Queen after being discovered living in solitude on the desert planet Sharn, in the Tranquium Galaxy. Known to local tribes as "the lonely demon," he avoided all forms of contact, though tales of his immense power and ferocity in battle made him a target for ambitious warriors. Approaching him with an offer to treat him as an equal rather than a mere tool, Queen gained his trust and secured his loyalty.

Despite a deep-seated resentment for all things fleshy, Lanogan is often moved by the sense of determination that many organic lifeforms possess. His ability to learn from his mistakes is unparalleled, and has encouraged him to designers to make him more convincing as an organic male — though his interest in such activities is next to nil. Lanogan's favorite leisure activity is meditation, though he occasionally enjoys masturbatories for days at a time. He frequently imagines what it's like to digest food.

Private Jinan "Jinny" Tannik

Hailing From: Garritas
Occupation: Conscript, Forget
Enjoys: bounty hunters, collectibles, stalking, praise

Jinan is a Garritan conscript serving aboard a military scout ship. Although she has nearly five years of active duty under her belt, an aversion to violence and unwillingness to kill has prevented her from rising through the ranks. Her lack of specialization in any particular field has further limited the prospect of promotion. Relegated to guard duty, she typically assists with the processing of prisoners and bounties. Despite her lackluster performance, Jinan has frequently secure merchandising deals with popular consumer brands, and often have extremely devoted fan-bases. Jinan's absolute favorite hunter is Prince Julian, and has a number of posters, clothing, and collectibles of his likeness, and keeps his rookie card in a locked display case under her bunk. She considers standing guard over him in the brig to be the high point of her career.

Professor Matini Oliva

Hailing From: Garritas
Occupation: Genius, Technophile
Enjoys: theoretical science, new dishs, puzzles, bionics

Professor Oliva is an exceptionally brilliant research scientist employed by the Tri-Galactic Federation. Her most notable work, "Compression Based Success", she is a pioneer in the field of compression theory — the science behind the reversible molecular collapse of physical objects. Her current project is the development of the Oliva Device, a prototype based on her theory of compression-based compression system that can store and catalogue any kind of matter in a handheld device. After a successful prototyping phase using organic objects and livestock, more complex experimental devices have been deployed in the field for bounty pacification.

Following a lengthy battle with "Specimen Z-22," a rare and aggressive form of flesh-eating bacteria, Professor Oliva lost her left arm and much of the tissue surrounding it. Six months of intensive physical therapy later, she constructed a prosthetic that replaced her arm. Her new arm is a marvel of technology, with motor control restoring most of the sensation to her fingers. While modern prosthetics are incredibly lifelike — often indistinguishable from the patient's original limb — Professor Oliva's prosthetic is unique in that it is built for upgrade. She has since studied bionics extensively, and often repairs cyborgs and androids in her spare time.